Mecca Bah Melbourne will host approximately 100 Salvation Army 'Clients' for a special Christmas Day Brunch.

Those attending are frequent users of the Salvation Army's services throughout the year and are some of the most marginalised in Melbourne.

This is the 4th year that Mecca Bah has participated in this event, and the Chefs are especially eager to provide a truly hearty meal to make it a memorable event for all guests.

"It's great for the Mecca Bah kitchen team to work together and give to people in need. We really do look forward to helping out every year." Justin Cortellino, Head Chef

Regular volunteers for this annual event contribute their time by driving guests from the Salvation Army on Bourke Street to Mecca Bah, and spending time speaking with those in need of a listening ear. Brodie Holland (retired Collingwood footballer) and Melbourne's new Lord Mayor, Robert Doyle have both supported the Salvos Christmas Brunch for several years.
